Checklist: Sex and relationships education resources

A wide range of teaching materials for SRE have been produced nationally and locally by the Welsh Assembly Government, commercial companies, local authorities, voluntary sector agencies and religious bodies such as diocesan education authorities.

This checklist is primarily for the use of the coordinator with responsibility for planning and managing SRE provision. It is designed to support schools when planning their SRE curriculum and selecting teaching materials that can be used to enhance their own activities and resources.

Criteria	Fully in place	Partly in place	Not in place
SRE resources are consistent with the values set out in the school sex education policy.
A range of SRE resources are used which are appropriate for the age, ability and maturity of learners.
Learners' views are taken regarding the resources used to deliver SRE and their feedback acted upon.
SRE resources are inclusive on the basis of home and family circumstance, gender, sexual orientation, race, faith, culture and disability.
SRE resources show positive role models for girls and boys and avoid gender stereotypes.
SRE resources encourage a skills-based approach and active learning methodologies.
SRE resources are factually correct and offer a balanced perspective on potentially sensitive issues.
SRE resources are contemporary in terms of the realities of children and young people's lives.
All staff involved in the delivery of the SRE programme receive appropriate training and support to use resources confidently.
A range of types of resource are used across the SRE programme, including DVD, visual, games, and models.
Arrangements are in place to inform for parents/carers about SRE teaching materials used and view them, on request.
Resources used by external agencies are reviewed and comply with the school sex education policy.
